Community Life Engaged

Dear community, respectful greetings.

Learning in abundance - creativity in Lambeth provisions

The saying goes that as one door closes another opens. This is very true. We are pleased to be able to announce our sister organisation Abundance Centres (Lambeth) Development Trust has successfully formed a consortium of like-minded family and community developing organisations to take advantage of a great opportunity.

Lambeth Council is now in a second phase of its Co-operative Council programme. The basic idea is that it has been foreseen that the Council will not be able to continue funding the provisions of adventure playgrounds, one o'clock clubs and youth centres in the near years to come. Therefore this programme has been set-up to, in principle, give community stake-holders an opportunity to lead or co-operate in the future of these provisions.

Our Trust, school and this new Consortium's service idea revolves around the development of education, health and social networking. As a starting point we have developed models around creativity, cross-curricula learning and unified knowledge that specifically enable and enrich the learning of science and maths through the arts and intelligent play. Our models have been applied at early years, primary, secondary, adventure scheme, youth centre levels and beyond. All to great effect. The project is focused on the communities of the London Borough of Lambeth and naturally we care for the immediately surrounding boroughs too.

Currently in Lambeth there are 9 provisions that we can potentially bid for as lead partners. This means taking on the full responsibility of total site management and service provisioning. Overall there are approximately 21 provisions that we intend to collaborate with through the borough wide dimension of our initiative.

Our Consortium has established the capacity to bid in this tendering process. In the continuous pursuit of excellence we must continuously strengthen and broaden our membership.

At this critical early stage of our development we are looking for more:

- Abundance Centres (Lambeth) Consortium Members
